Naming of the school

The trustees of the Edmonton Public School on March 19th, 1964, when Mr. William Philip Wagner, B.A., M.ED., was about to retire as Superintendent, declared that 'in recognition of his leadership in effectively administering the unprecedented expansion of the Edmonton Public School System during his term of office as Superintendent of School, the Board wishes to have this newest high school named W. P. Wagner High School'.

From country school teacher in 1916 to retirement as Superintendent on June 30, 1964, Mr. W. P. Wagner brought to a close a career in education that was both varied and long; it was interrupted only by university studies and service in the two world wars. Throughout this period he consistently displayed a deep concern for the welfare of boys and girls of all ages.

In the final year of his career, he devoted particular attention to fostering the concept of a unique school that would add a new dimension to high school education in Alberta. Finally, in September, 1968, his wish was realized with the opening of W. P. Wagner High School.

'Official School Opening' of W. P. Wagner High School—
about 3,000 people attended in spite of sub-zero temperature. Some highlights were—

- an encouraging message from Dr. Rolland Jones, Superintendent.
- Greetings from the Government of Canada by Dr. Hu Harries, M.P. for the Edmonton-Strathcona constituency, who presented the school with a large flag of Canada.
- Greetings from the Government of Canada by Honourable R. C. Clarke, Minister of Education, who presented to the school a picture of Mount Eisenhower.
- Mr. T. D. Baker, Deputy Superintendent, introduced the guest of honor, Mr. W. P. Wagner.
- Mr. Wagner treated the large assembly to some delightful reminiscences and expressed great pride in the school.
- Dr. M. E. Lazerte, trustee who gave the main address, outlined the reasons for building this school, and explained its philosophy, objectives and curriculum.
- Mr. Don. L. Sinclair, representing the architectural firm of Sinclair, Skakun and Naito, presented to the students a portrait in oil of W. P. Wagner painted by Mr. Gordon Sinclair, father of the architect and long time friend of Bill Wagner.
- Mr. John Bracco, Chairman of the School Board, performed the most unusual formality ever witnessed at official school openings in the City of Edmonton. Instead of the traditional 'ribbon cutting', he used a blazing oxyacetylene torch to cut a 'golden chain' stretched across the stage. The dramatic flare of sparks brought both platform guests and the vast audience to their feet.

DEDICATION

The first edition of our "Wagner Warrior" is gratefully dedicated to W. P. Wagner High School's first principal - Mr. E. S. Gish.

Because he understands us so well, he planned for us a prestige school that we could be proud of. Our school, approximately forty acres in size, provides ideal facilities for educating our minds and exercising our bodies.

We are glad the building is beautiful in design, because we know that it will lend inspiration to the youth who will gather beneath its roof. We are glad that it is modern in all particulars, for we feel that a student who spends so many years of his life in the school-room should have everything possible to assist him in his studies and to keep him strong and well. And we are glad for this evidence of generosity on the part of the people of this city, for it gives the assurance that they too have the cause of learning, and the good of the younger generation, at heart.

We are especially thankful that Mr. Gish is the kind of person who generates a warm friendly atmosphere around him for it has encouraged us to communicate freely with him, with our teachers and with each other.

We always enjoy hearing those stories about your 'navy days' Mr. Gish, but we are very glad you later decided on teaching as a career, and Edmonton as your home base. We know that you were principal at Fulton Place, Capilano and Eastwood Schools but we are very glad that you eventually came to Wagner.

To me, the Editor of the Warrior, on behalf of all the students, has fallen the very pleasant duty of dedicating this, our first Yearbook, to you Mr. Gish -- our first principal.

Principal's Message

"Warrior 70" is the first edition of a W. P. Wagner Yearbook, and I congratulate the students and staff who cooperated in producing this attractive chronicle. The initial launching of any new venture is always difficult, but the apparent success in 1969-70 indicates that the people at our school have the knowledge and ability to make Project Yearbook an annual activity.

"Warrior 70" offers a fascinating story of events that have occurred during the year, as well as a wonderful photographic record of the students and staff which will keep alive our memories of one another in the days ahead. None of us should be without a yearbook!

It will do much to enhance the reputation and tradition of this fine school, and help students to feel that they are a part of it. After scanning these exciting pages, you will have to agree that there is solid evidence here of increasing student participation in many activities and of good school spirit. Pride and involvement not only enliven our extra-curricular programs but should also encourage each of you to put more heart and enthusiasm into the important business of finishing your education. As long as you can set worthwhile goals and work hard to reach them, we can look forward with considerable optimism to the future of W. P. Wagner High School.

A Reality

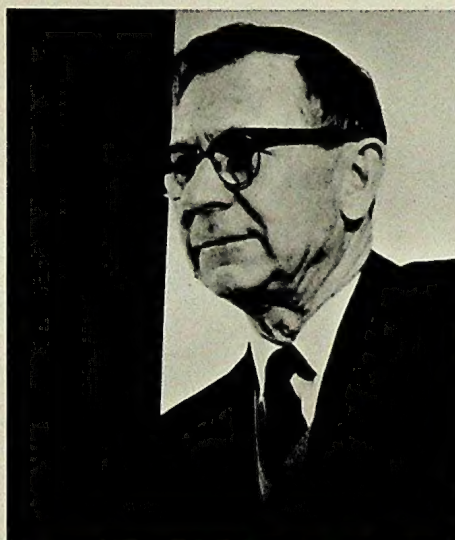

"In recognition of his leadership in effectively administering the unprecedented expansion of the Edmonton Public School System during his term of office as Superintendent of Schools, the School Board wishes to have this newest high school named W.P. Wagner High School."

This was decided by the trustees of the Edmonton Public School Board on March 10th, 1964, when Mr. William Wagner, B.A., M.Ed., was about to retire as superintendent.

From country school teacher in 1916 to retirement as superintendent on June 30, 1964, Mr. W. P. Wagner brought to a close a career in education that was both varied and long, it was interrupted only by university studies and service in the two world wars. Throughout this period he consistently displayed a deep concern for the welfare of boys and girls of all ages.

In the final year of his career, Mr. Wagner devoted particular attention to fostering the concept of a unique school, that would add a new dimension to high school education in Alberta. Finally, in September, 1968, his wish was realized with the opening of W. P. Wagner High School, a remarkable building, designed for older boys and girls who have special needs and are anxious to prepare themselves effectively for adult life. It was indeed, "A DREAM REALIZED"!

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

I think W. P. Wagner is a very nice school because there are more opportunities to get a trade than in any other school.

One of the nicest things about W. P. Wagner is there is very little pressure on a person forcing him to work.

People having academic trouble can also get something out of this school.

Going to this school a person can also have fun and also get knowledge from it.

People interested in getting into students Council have no trouble what so ever. They can take part in almost anything they wish.

Editors Message

This is indeed the story of your Yearbook staff. Everyone—at—planning, writing, cram—ming, cutting, spacing, and more writing. Many hours are spent to make a yearbook a true masterpiece.

We, of the Warrior 70 staff hope that you will find the First Edition of the Warrior a book of the future and of the past. May all the future students look with pride at the pictures of those who have gone before. May all the ones who remember working with us have plans to help with another Warrior, and may the ones who won't be back look forward to the best in the future and with fond memories on the past.

MR. STETSKO SUCCEEDS MR. GISH AS PRINCIPAL--BRINGS US UP TO DATE

Much effort has been put forth in the publishing of this first Year Book and on behalf of the school staff and student body may I take this opportunity to extend thanks to Mr. Brunelle; the Year Book staff, and all others who, through their hard work and involvement, have made this possible.

On March 30th, Mr. Gish accepted a position as Superintendent of St. Albert Protestant Separate Schools. I am sure all of you who have known him as a true friend, colleague and principal will join me in wishing him well in his new field.

I am also confident that all students and staff will extend a warm welcome to Mr. J. Smith who has been appointed as First Assistant Principal of W. P. Wagner High School.

Our school is becoming known for its very innovative educational practices and for the successful graduates who have gone to various fields of endeavor. Many visitors from throughout Canada, as well as other countries, have been highly impressed with the quality of educational opportunities offered at this school.

I am confident that with the staff and student body we can continue to impress the public in the years ahead.

WRESTLING

GO! WAGNER GO!

The W. P. Wagner Warrior Wrestling Team amassed an impressive record during its 1969-70 season. In its exhibition meets held prior to the High School championships they won 5 of their 7 meets. In its High School finals our Warriors placed 6th of 11 schools competing.

VOLLEYBALL

THE TEAM--Coach Alton, Marek Wilk, Reinhold Florkowsky, Fred Joynes, Marc Spencer, Pat Gilday, Alf Hernstedt.

The W. P. Wagner volleyball team is to be congratulated for playing so well throughout the season and are to be complimented on their sportsmanlike behavior, as well as their good playing. Wagner was able to beat each team in the league at least once in the schedule. Next year the volleyball team for Wagner promises to be the best ever.

The team ended up occupying 4th place in the league standings with a total of 8 points. Congratulations go to our captain, Mark Spencer, Coach, Mr. Alton, and the team, for their performance.

HEAVY ACTION

Ken McArthur

W.P- Wagner students competed in both high school championships, power as well as olympic lifting. In the power competition T. Carlyle-Bell placed first, D. Schultz second in their weight classes. In the olympic competition K. McArthur won a second place. All our boys worked hard and made a good showing.

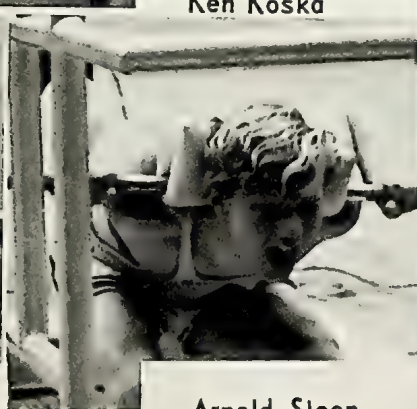

Participating members of the club: H. Berger, T. Carlyle-Bell, K. Koska, K. McArthur, R. Lefebvre, B. Letawsky, D. Pointon, J. Roxburgh, R. Schramm, D. Schultz, A. Sleen.

Building construction is one of the best vocational areas in our school. A year one student learns how to use most of the carpenter's tools and the special machinery associated with this trade. The first week you attend Building Construction you learn the Safety rules so essential for your own and your future employer's protection. Then you are taught how to plane a block of wood, the right way. You discover there's a best way to hammer a nail, saw, sand wood, too. Next each student becomes involved in a project of his own choosing such as the making of a bowl, lamp, or book holder for example. If you have now become quite proficient, you can start then working on more difficult projects such as building a table, a bench, or anything else you might want to make for your own use, or for someone else's.

Being in building Construction has been such an interesting experience for many Wagner year one students, that they chose this area as their area of specialization.

Home Management is a worth while area to work in and a great way to learn more about yourself and others. This teaching area, with its sparkling equipment, the beds with their snow-white sheets, and other apparatus you find in a hospital are exciting to work with. Among the many usefull things learned are child care, and first aid. Students give each other bed baths, but some would rather give the mannikens baths because they don't talk back. They learn how to bath infants too! Included in first aid is the making of the many different kinds of bandages to dress different types of wounds.

Horticulture is a very interesting area. Students learn all about the tools a gardener uses and the correct way to use them. In addition students are taught how to handle the special machinery required for planting lawns.

Careful and detailed instructions reveal the importance of using the different specific soil mixtures so essential for the production and maintenance of lawns, plants, vegetables, trees, and other garden produce. Students learn the best fertilizers to use to make lawns and vegetables grow faster and remain healthy, green and productive.

Wagner High School is teaching one of the oldest trades known to mankind. Today it is still one of the most vital components of all our biggest industries. Our school is teaching welding to the first, second and third year students so they'll be able to become a part of this continuously expanding trade. Our school may not be teaching the students everything there is to know about welding but they are being taught the important, basic, theoretical and practical knowledge they must have. The students in welding are very fortunate. When they have completed their third year they can apply for a job, confident they really do know how welders are operated and how to use them safely.

Like all vocational areas at W. P. Wagner, Business Education also offers a Year one orientation program. During the 6 weeks students are introduced to typing, clerical practice, and record keeping. The experience helps students and teachers evaluate ability and interest for the Year two and Year three program in Business Ed.

Year two can be described as the skill building year with typing, record keeping, introduction to clerical practice, Forkner shorthand, and merchandising. Graphic arts is a special feature of the Wagner Business Education program and a very popular area with all students. At the conclusion of Year two, with basic skills fairly well established, the students proceed to the Year three program.

Year three is designed to prepare students for either a final year in a grade 12 program in another high school, or for office employment. Production typing is stressed in all subject areas, double-entry bookkeeping and business accounting practices, machine posting, completion of clerical practice, shorthand 21, merchandising 20. Photography-lithography is a continuation of year two Graphic Arts program, and once again an area of great interest.

Year three is noted for the practical application of the students' developing skills. In the business skills area, a simulated wholesale sales office provides students with a realistic business office situation. There, the students follow through a typical sales office routine. Inter-relation of the various office duties, efficiency in organization of time and work space, consequence of errors, are studied in terms of real office employment.

The SUGAR SHACK is a student operated school store. Under the direction and supervision of Mr. Merchandising, D. McIvor, students are introduced to the many procedures practiced in retail merchandising. In addition to providing the merchandising classes with a realistic learning experience, the SUGAR SHACK is a popular gathering place for the rest of the school population.

Photography-lithography provides practice in all aspects of news reporting. From the first day of school students begin compiling a complete photo-news history of student activities, school highlights, and special events for the school paper and the year book. Students experience photography, film processing, enlarging, lay-out planning, rephotographing for lithography reproduction, final run on the offset press, and distribution. The year book material is finished to the stage where the layout is ready for the process camera.

VALEDICTORY

As we complete our high school years we realize how much we and our school have changed. Those of us who were in first and second year of our school have seen an amazing amount of progress. In working with the teachers in the challenging task of creating the right school atmosphere, we have grown more mature while developing our school into a prominent institute of learning.

However, the advancement of our school and our educational advancement is far from over. Many of us will be going into specialized fields within the next few years, but we must always remember the truths that we have gathered during our high school years. We are prepared to graduate, not because we have followed the prescribed curriculum, but because we have worked with others, have felt ourselves part of a miniature society, have seen its problems and shared its happiness, and have gained deeper insights into life in our various classes.

After leaving high school we shall find deeper problems - some concerning us directly and some affecting us indirectly as we exist as part of a larger society. We are acutely aware of the problems in the school when they confront us every day, but will we remember that we solved them, and have the courage to face the problems in our new roles in life? We strongly hope so!

It takes revaluations to change some of the abuses in society. We will revolt in support of worthwhile changes and modifications- not by an uproar but by a continuous campaign-hard fought but peaceful. We hope never to lose our optimism, for we know those who are pessimistic will never give their best. Youth has never made a concerted effort before but we'll do it! The difficulties in life are often stumbling blocks, but not necessarily barricades. We have some ideas now, but in the next few years they will undoubtedly be thoroughly questioned by ourselves and others. We have lived a sheltered life, to a degree, in our high school environment, but we know that we must question everything we are told, but also be willing to accept new ideas.

Today we have more opportunities open to us, but we have just as many chances of making mistakes. We are lucky, but we must help to realize our luck.

In the words of Angela Morgan:

"To be alive in such an age-

To live in it,

To give to it,

To be alive in such an age!"

Thank you, parents and teachers for the help that you have given us. Do not judge us by our academic achievements but rather by the contribution we make and will make to the improvement of our world socially and scientifically. If we succeed in reaching our goals, much of the credit will belong to you.

In conclusion, although we will be sad at the prospect of leaving school, we are looking forward with enthusiasm to our entrance into society on a larger scale. New friends, new places, new ideas, are the promises of an exciting future; and we are members of the generation who will mold the future.

THE WARRIOR IN COLORFUL

The Warrior has occupied a very special place in the hearts of men of all nations since the dawn of history. He has evoked emotions of profound depth in times of strife. He has come to the defense of his city and his nation, he has never shirked his duty.

The Wagner Warrior is, like his predecessor, a very special breed of person. Our warrior has faced adversity and won, he has faced uncertainty and has dealt with it. He has faced responsibility and met it head on. Being a true Warrior he will face setbacks with determination and dark days with patience.

Our Warrior, Bob Tomazewsky, is representative of all the graduating students. They all possess the armor that Bob is wearing.

They have been armed with the (Gladius) sword and spear, symbols of learning. With these weapons they will cut their way through the veil of ignorance.

TOAST TO THE GRADUANDS MR. T. PEARSON

TAKES UP ARMS

GRAD CEREMONY

THE CAPE symbolizes knowledge. A protect-against those dark days and nights when nothing seems to work, nothing seems worth the effort of trying.

THE LEG PROTECTORS are symbolic of understanding. Never again will we have our feet cut out from under us simply because we did not know, because we did not understand.

THE BREASTPLATE AND THE EAGLE, symbols of honor and determination. Our warriors have learned to control their emotions and to conduct themselves as responsible individuals. Like true warriors they have learned to defend those who are less fortunate than themselves. They have learned the value of perseverance and unwavering determination. Above all, they are truthful and sincere in their relationships with others.

THE HELMET, symbol of wisdom. This piece of equipment is probably the most important piece of all. What good "courage"; what good "determination"; "knowledge", "honor" and "perseverance" if we do not possess the wisdom to use them and use them wisely.

REPLY MARLIAN PATERSON

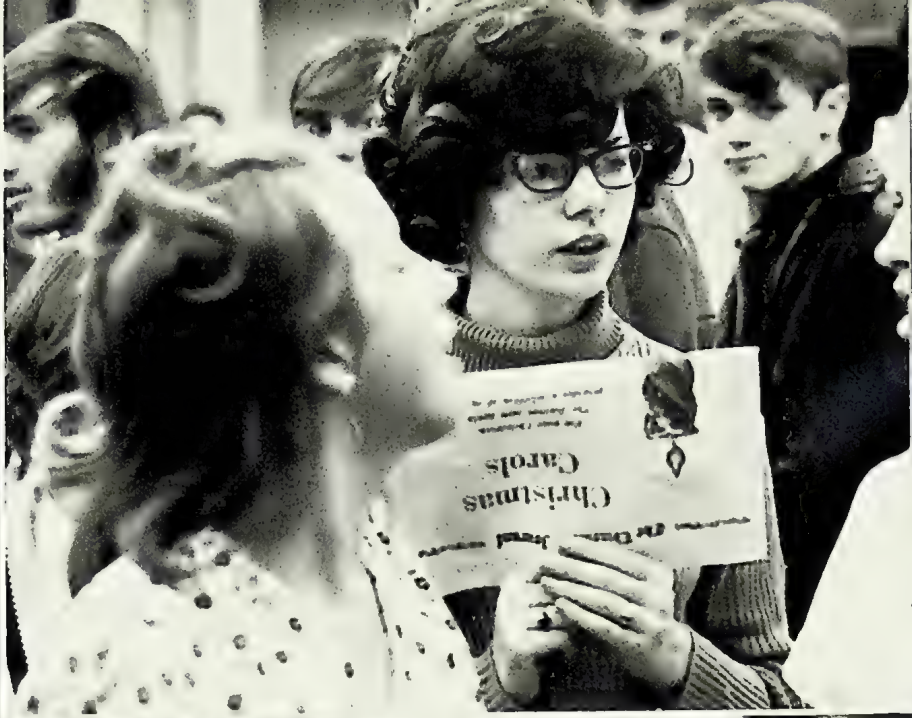

GISH DAY

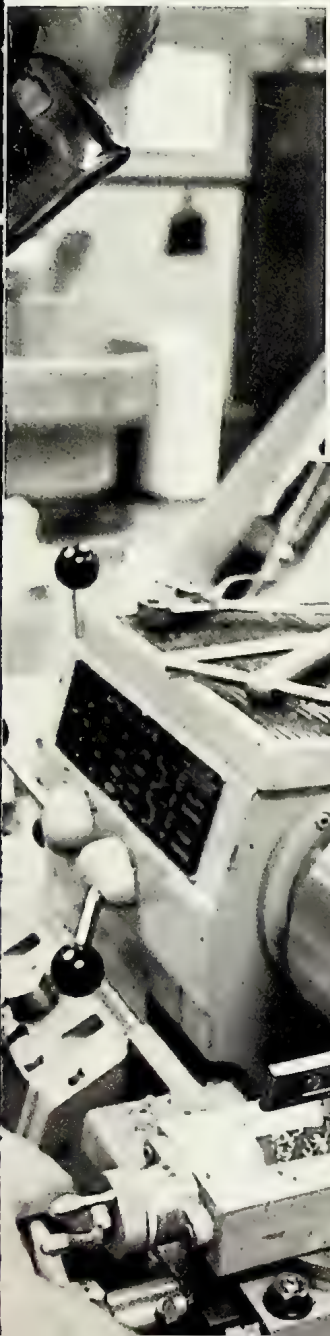

Gish Day was a bright and cheery one and will long be remembered by all of us at Wagner. The whole day was filled with spontaneous manifestations of the genuine affection Wagner's students felt for their Principal, Mr. Gish. When he entered the gymnasium, borne aloft on five of his students shoulders, the very atmosphere vibrated with the warmth and respect felt by all present for their departing principal. The students' and staff's reactions were indicative of all the warmth and genuine interest Mr. Gish himself 'had given us unstintingly, every day in the year. The skits (put on by the teachers), the presentation of gifts, the students dance, all contributed to produce a wonderful, and memorable day.

Wagner High School holds 1st awards night

Eighteen students were honored Thursday night at the new W. P. Wagner High School's first awards night.

The students were honored for academic, vocational and extra-curricular accomplishments, and for athletic prowess.

Joyce Welyan received the A. J. Perry award, for her "out-standing" contribution to the school. She was cited for her extra-curricular activities within the school and her representations of the school at students' seminars.

The George Pappas award for the highest standing in academic and vocational classes in Year 3 went to Ron Goltz.

David Mondea received the W. P. Wagner scholarship award from Mr. Wagner himself, for the highest standing in Year 2 academic and vocational classes.

T. D. Baker, deputy superintendent of schools, presented the George Pappas award and

H. Thompson, former principal of King Edward junior high school, presented the A. J. Perry award.

Strathcona awards for Year 1 students went to: Dan Peterson, winner of the citizenship award; Brian Durocher, Dan Peterson, Brenda McLachlin and Soon Ng, Year 1 perfect attendance.

Athletic awards went to: Tom Hancharuk, volleyball; Randy Barore, wrestling; Ken Kosha, weight lifting; Bill Madigan, soccer; Gary Brown, track and field; Carol McKinnon, female athlete of the year; Tim Carlyle-Bell, coach's award; Ken Kosa and Gary Brown, male athlete of the year (tie).

Tours of the school followed the awards ceremony. Parents also were able to visit grade co-ordinators D. P. Stetsko, first assistant principal, Year 3; Mrs. E. J. Franche, Year 2; and R. M. Paton, Year 1.

Years 1, 2 and 3 replace Grades 10 to 12 at Wagner.

SPECIAL GUESTS- There were at least two very special guests touring the school following the awards presentations. On the left is a proud uncle who a lot of you know. The young man on the right didn't miss a thing.

SOLUS

Mr. L. Thompson (Drama Teacher)

"Solus" is a 3½ minute film designed, not to tell a story, but to communicate an idea, or mood. It was inspired several years ago by a piece of music, which is the sound track of the film. Although some story or plot may be deduced from the script, it is basically a combination or collage of images conceived to complement the music. The film was shot in black and white to enhance the underlying mood.

On March 24 Wagner students over the age of 17 had the opportunity of joining their colleagues in the gym for a rest from regular classes. A coke and a cot were provided by the Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic and over 96 students took advantage of this special coke break. The price--one pint of blood.

This event, the first in the short history of our new school, was arranged by Wagner's Student Council. It was more than successful. To quote the Field Supervisor of the Red Cross Mobile Unit, it was "the best organized high school clinic held".

Another well earned bouquet for best performance in connection with this clinic goes to Dave Mondea for his photographic coverage--to further quote the Field Supervisor "they (the pictures) are excellent and show step by step the organization of a clinic." "I have used them several times to illustrate to Junior High Schools how a clinic is run."

Edmonton is a swinging town for music and offers the best opportunity for musicians, said Mr. Dan Breda the new music director at W.P. Wagner High School.

His only wish is that more students would participate in the music scene. His program consists of folk music, rock music and other types of music

He has hopes that his classes will have the opportunity to perform in a school concert.

He commented on the equipment in W. P. Wagner as being the best he has seen in any school.

He came to Wagner all the way from Pittsburgh to teach music here. We are happy to have him here because he is a great help to music in W.P. Wagner High School.

OPERATION

OPERATION KO was one of Wagner's most ambitious undertakings in the 1969-70 school year. The operation was a combined effort using student skills in building construction, plumbing, sheet metal, and building maintenance. This project has changed a war-time style house with an attic to a modern style home with an upstairs.

The boys started this project around the end of October and have been quite eager and happy to work on it. With Mr. Kopf's approval the boys did most of the planning and arranging of how the change should be done. The project is expected to be completely finished near the end of May.

The number of boys involved in each vocation are: construction - 6; plumbing - 12; sheet metal - 6; and building maintenance - 6. The teachers involved are: Mr. Grimble, Mr. Halownia, Mr. Halvorsen, Mr. Arbter, Mr. Kugelstad, Mr. Burgess and Mr. Vanderleek. Mr. Burgess did the supervising.

Mr. Kopf has said that his wife and himself are very happy with the results. He also enjoyed the slides which Mr. Burgess has taken, to show the progress and what has been done to the house.
